Tim Maloney

Tim Maloney is Managing Director and Founder of Newport Group Inc. Since 1990, under Tim's leadership, the firm has designed and coordinated projects for the core leaders of privately held companies seeking to define and execute strategic objectives through aligned and engaged teams.

Mr. Maloney has written extensively and has contributed articles to various forms of media. Recently he has authored a book Fortune's Impasse –Saving the Family's Jewels on the subject of family business transition with Randy McLachlan of Genbridge Family Offices.

Howard Johnston

Howard is a Managing Director of Veracap M&A International Inc. and Campbell Valuation Partners Limited. He has helped numerous business owners and executives in maximizing shareholder value through acquisitions, divestitures, private equity financing and corporate growth strategies. In addition Howard has held senior management roles within mid-size and large corporations, and he has served on the Board of Directors for public and private companies.

Howard is the author of seven books on the subjects of business valuation, acquisitions, divestitures and shareholder value. He is a frequent speaker at conferences throughout North America and has been an expert witness on complex valuation matters before the courts.

Feedback from our client's ...

"I look forward to working closely with Newport on future projects."

"If I look at results, I would have to say that for the management team in their development both individually and as a team, the results have been better and higher than expected."

"If participants feel it is more than just theory and it is delivered by someone who knows what they face each day, then they are likely to adopt it. That was certainly the reaction I got here".

We are happy to introduce prospective clients to past clients when asked

Welcome back!

In reflecting on the past 24 years in business, one of my fondest memories was hosting our valued clients and business friends for our semi-annual Breakfast Briefing.

We have heard that with age comes wisdom. Much has unfolded since our last one, but my commitment to all of you and enthusiasm for this format has never been higher. Looking around many of us now move forward to new challenges both in and outside of our family businesses. The time we have for business transition preparation can be a great asset, if used wisely. For this event, I will be welcoming one of Canada's thought leaders in the area of business valuation Howard Johnson of VeraCap M&A International. I look forward to seeing you on the 6th of May for this event.
